Statement of Purpose

After self-evaluating my personality, aptitude, and passion, I would like to describe myself as an energetic, passionate and self-evolved being. Ever since I remember I always had enthusiasm to gain real world experience through my work. Developing professional skills along with interpersonal skills through the course I pursue is everything I have dreamed of. So, after completing my bachelor's degree I wanted to pursue MSc Project Management in order to accelerate my learning as I will be exposed to theories and principles relating to financial and contractual leading terms including those that are geographically diverse, strategic leadership and the management of change, risk and opportunities. Also through this course I would be able to enhance my capabilities regarding business projects so that I can work in this field to commence my own business and contribute to improve the business and management sector of my country and take it to the highest possible level.

In my undergraduate level, I studied ...(mention your bachelor's degree)... and was looking forward to continuing my master's degree in MSc Project Management that could lead students to be capable of understanding the business environments from international perspective and become successful in professional career rather than only academically qualified. Therefore, MSc Project Management was the best option to carry my study ahead. The reason behind this degree becoming such a global success is that it makes an individual develop all a strong emphasis on developing the managerial skills and knowledge vital for effective business leaders in international level and to be a successful manager. This program would not only help me develop necessary skills but it would also help me learn to present a theoretical context for solving many business problems. With today's competitive market demand where managers face different challenges, I should always be ready for those kinds of situations where every detail has to be analyzed properly and has to be solved logically and creatively. MSc Project Management is all about the real market situation across borders and the cutting business practices that are practiced all over the world. This course focuses on providing theory knowledge along with the practices of business management. Understanding the functions of different department of organization will enhance my capabilities to lead, think and act strategically which will boost up my confidence to operate across all areas of business. This is probably some of the things that I will be learning during my MSc Project Management.

Similarly, I had compared further education for my additional courses in different universities located in different parts of the world. However, I could not find such relevant course in my home country. The courses offered by universities in (your home country) are theoretical based rather than interconnecting practical environments. The modules and structures are merely based on the university lecturer not learned on the practical work environments with ESAP module. Likewise, other universities in the other parts of the world were not appropriate as I was looking forward to continuing my further degree in Project Management. The selected course modules were not appropriate and practical based as compared to MSc Project Management in UK. In addition, continuing my further education inside the UK could be cost-effective and time saving for me. Also, the course designed and modules included in UK universities are very relevant for my career progression. Indeed, the resources availability, past student experiences, experienced and qualified lecturer, location and international student scholarship program are the primary reason I chose to study in UK. In addition, the professional networking gained during my previous degree could be strong and widen until my further study in the UK that could be fruitful in a way forward to career development.

After series of research I came to a conclusion that if I get the degree from Northumbria University, it would help me boost my future career gaining the professional knowledge and practical work experiences. In addition, the courses contents, modules and durations at the Northumbria University are better than any other universities for my academic career. On the other hand, other universities did not offer flexible intakes. The university ranking and learning opportunities are being found better with Northumbria University compared to other selected universities in my research. The completion of the intended course from Northumbria University will provide me with the necessary knowledge and the right set of skills that will enable me to develop my strategic analytical skills, business institution, capacity to enquire, adaptive thinking and so on. Also, there are several career scopes in this Programme provided by Northumbria University which includes Financial Manager, Health Service Manager, High-End Management consultant, Information Technology (IT) Director, Investment Banker, Investment Fund Manager and many others with many examples of most of the fresher graduates and working professionals nowadays seeking to have a MSc Project Management degree. This is how I was inclined towards choosing Northumbria University as my next education destination.

Above all, after completing my studies, I plan to return to my country and apply what I have learnt from this program to develop a new business. During my course I expect myself to learn skills to develop a successful career of which I and also my family can be proud of. I am planning to work either in the reputed consultant company, bank, or government organization. With this post graduate course, I will develop my business skills and business strategies that I would like to use to contribute in my country's growing economy. In (your home country) young entrepreneur, companies, business get closed during their early stage because they lack business skills and business strategies. I can advise, manage and help grow business organizations in (your home country) to perform better after I graduate.

Lastly, I look forward to be a member of Northumbria University family. It would be great pleasure and honor for me if given an opportunity to ensure my postgraduate studies in MSc Project Management at Northumbria University.
